MARCIA LEWIS

Marsh,
Are you really graduating high school? All of us were shocked to learn that the administration is letting a six year old graduate. How did you fool them into you allowing you? We know that your wise beyond your years and absorb knowledge like a sponge, so maybe they think you're fit to leave. Your reaction time and ability to read an opponent (as well as beat up everyone in the family but Ott) has led us to believe that you must be the true Captain America-- and then there are additional qualities you share; your ability to be kind to everyone and desire to make those you interact with feel comfortable. Now, we know you always had to be ready for your next field hockey game and refused to take your butt pads off as you roamed LGHS, but perhaps you will consider taking them off for graduation?
We're proud of you baby gurl. You'll always be our pooplet.
